PROFILE

I am an experienced graphic designer/comics artist/writer currently based in North London. I have worked across a wide range of disciplines: corporate literature, packaging, book typography and layout, editorial illustration. I also write and publish stories on regular basis. Being curious and enthusiastic, I have a natural passion for all things beautiful. Currently I am looking for a contract/freelance opportunity that can allow me to expand my creative horizon and work with fun & interesting people.

INTERESTS

What I love to do: drawing, reading, writing, travelling, bread making & binge watching (especially dramas that are full of suspense)

How I live: not the type that can sit still, I long for changes and challenges. I love to move around the globe, have lived and worked in 4 different countries. Each place tells a different story and they all become a source of my creativity later.
